

Nature's big, green cleaning machine

Not only are wetlands important to the birds and other animals that inhabit them, but also to us humans, as we rely on them to clean our river water.

